

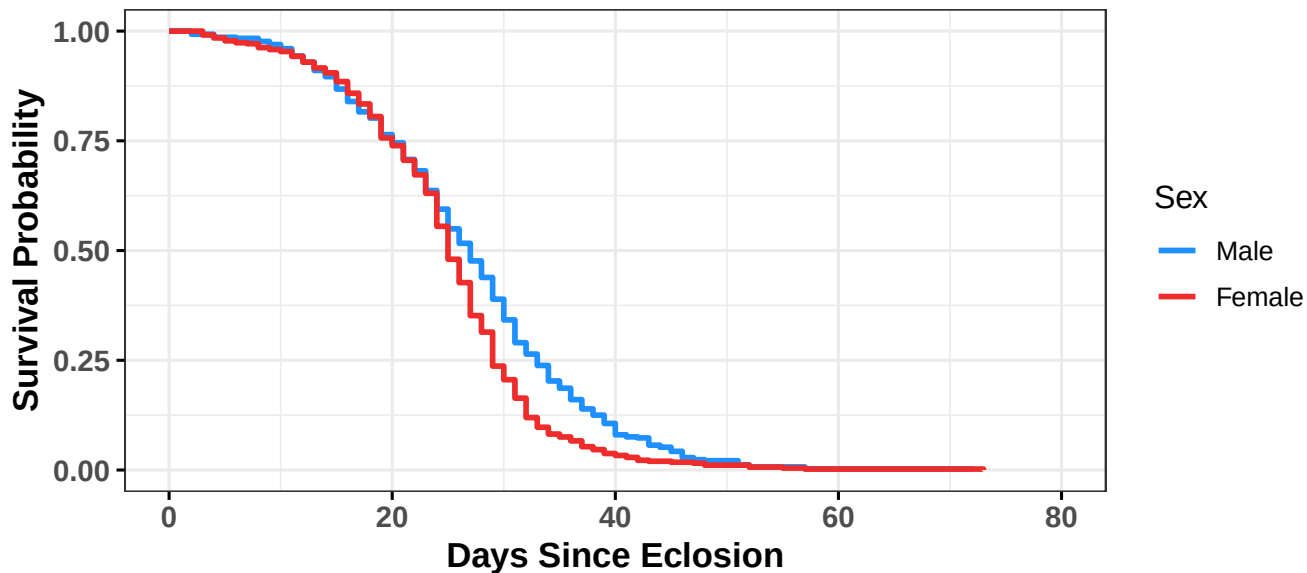

Figure 2: Survival curves of captive reared monarchs. Kaplan–Meier survival curves for male (blue) and female (red) representing adult lifespans from >400 individuals in each sex of captive reared D. plexippus butterflies. Males have significantly greater survival than females ($p = 2 \times 10^{-5}$).